Nixon 'very upset' his aides involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was "dumbfounded" when told that his closest aides had been accused in the Watergate case in mid-April of this year, former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said today.

Kleindienst told the Senate Watergate committee that he first learned of accusations by White House counsel John W. Dean III and former Nixon campaign deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder early in the morning of April 15.

He said he immediately sought a meeting with Nixon, and relayed the information to him early that afternoon in Nixon's office.

"He was dumbfounded, he was very upset," Kleindienst said.

Kleindienst said Justice Department officials told him, and he told the President, that Dean and Magruder had implicated former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, campaign aide Frederick C. LaRue, themselves, White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former campaign aide Robert C. Mardian, "you name it."

"This is the first time since June 17, 1972, that anybody had given me any credible evidence that any of them were involved in any way," Kleindienst said.

The hearing was disrupted for about 10 minutes during the morning session by a half dozen young people who took turns reading aloud from a statement. They called themselves representatives of "the National Caucus of Labor Committees."

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., ordered the disruptors ejected and they were taken by Capitol police to a room in the basement of the Russell Senate Office Building.

Kleindienst also testified that he warned Ehrlichman less than two months after the June 17 break-in that he might be involved in an obstruction of justice. And Kleindienst said he threatened to resign if Ehrlichman didn't stop meddling in the investigation.

He also said the mastermind of the wiretapping, G. Gordon Liddy, approached him the afternoon after the raid and said that White House or Nixon campaign employees might have been included among the five men arrested inside Democratic national headquarters.

He said he immediately gave orders against any special treatment for the men, and told Liddy to leave the golf club where they met.

But Kleindienst insisted he didn't have evidence of high-level involvement in the case until Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, the man in over-all charge of the wiretapping, told him about the accusations of Dean and Magruder.

That was after the White House Correspondents Association dinner. Kleindienst met at his home with Petersen, U.S. Atty. Harold Titus and federal prosecutor Earl Silbert.

Kleindienst, a personal friend of both Mardian and Mitchell, said he reacted emotionally to the accusations. "Two of those men were the closest friends I have ever had in my life," he said. "I think one of the things I did that night was, I wept."

He said the affair saddened him more than anything since the death of his mother when he was a young boy.

He said Nixon consoled him in their meeting that afternoon, when Kleindienst laid out the charges.

Kleindienst said he immediately withdrew from the wiretapping investigation, and put Petersen in over-all charge. Kleindienst resigned as head of the Justice Department two weeks later, April 30, when Haldeman and Ehrlichman quit and Dean was fired.

And Kleindienst told the Senate committee that within two or three days after that he told Dean that he was concerned about the grave nature of the wiretapping raid. He said he told Dean it "went to the heart of the political system."

He also said he refused to authorize Dean to have access to raw FBI reports of the investigation, which Dean eventually received directly from acting FBI Director Patrick Gray III.

Kleindienst said he offered to give Dean oral summaries of the FBI's investigation, but that written reports could be given only on President Nixon's direct authority.

Kleindienst said that Ehrlichman, who was then Nixon's chief presidential adviser, called him on Aug. 8 or 9, while he was on vacation, and said he was having trouble with Petersen.

He said Ehrlichman said, "I gave him instructions that he would not follow." "My first reaction was, 'What are you doing calling him in the first place and giving him instructions of any kind?'" Kleindienst recalled.

He said Ehrlichman told him he wanted the FBI not to "harass" Maurice H. Stans, the former secretary of commerce who was Nixon's finance chairman.

"I said, 'John, you've got to be out of

Chamber members sought

With their slogan "50-4," two-member teams from the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce visited local merchants Tuesday morning in an effort to recruit 50 new Chamber members within a four hour time limit. The membership drive started at 9 a.m. following a "kick-off" meeting at the Chamber office and was scheduled to be concluded at 1 p.m. The Barbour Appliance Center, 404 South Ohio, was one of the many businesses to join the Chamber. In the above photo, Bob Barbour, right, the owner of the store, talks with Mary Jane

Wilson and Louis Hughes, Jr., one of the Chamber teams, after he had agreed to become a member. Standing next to Barbour is Monte Dennis, a sales manager with the appliance store. Chamber president Jake Siragusa said at noon Tuesday that 39 new businesses had joined the Chamber and, with only an hour to go in the drive, said that he was "very optimistic" of the outcome of the drive and that things were going "amazingly well up 'till now."

Abolish garbage fee

By DICK JONES
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

The City Council Monday night rejected an offer to purchase land for a proposed fire station at the 500 block of Hancock and abolished the present $1 city charge for garbage collection.

Second Ward Councilman Raymond Bales introduced in pre-council session three reasons for not buying the 176 by 240-foot tract of land from the MKT Railroad: (1) the lot is too expensive; (2) trains may occasionally block nearby streets; (3) the proposed site is too close to the present station at Fourth and Montgomery.

The property, located just north of the Midwest Auto warehouse, would give the city two properly-located fire stations, according to the Insurance Service Office of Missouri, Jones said. The proposed station would have cost $165,000, well within the $200,000 allotted in the city budget.

According to Jones, a 1970 report by the Insurance Service Office recommended that present fire stations at the 200 block of Kentucky and Fourth and Montgomery should be consolidated. The west fire station at 2806 West 16th would remain unchanged, Jones said.

The cost of the proposed site would be $14,826, or 36 cents per square foot. "This site is within what the insurance companies call an acceptable area," the mayor said.

Joining Bales in opposition to the land acquisition were Second Ward Councilman Ira Knox, and Third Ward Councilmen Bob Wells and Carl Franklin. "I was led to believe we needed three fire stations a couple of years ago and now they're saying we need only two. I say Sedalia is growing and if we needed three stations a while back, we still need three," said Knox.

Mayor Jones will notify the MKT railroad that the council is not interested in buying the land, it was learned.

On a motion from Third Ward Democrat Bob Wells, the council voted 5-2 in favor of abolishing the $1 garbage collection charge. Wells said he had proposed in last week's council meeting that revenue sharing funds could be used to pay for this service and lessen the burden for the individual taxpayer. "This is what revenue sharing is supposed to be for and I think this will benefit the people," said Franklin, who also supported the measure.

Fourth Ward Republican George Dugan Jr. favored tabling the measure. "I think there should be some discussion," he said. Dugan was joined in dissent by First Ward Republican Don Broadus.

Mayor Jones also revealed to the council that the recently-initiated taxi program which provides financial assistance to elderly patrons is costing much more than the council had originally anticipated. The city paid about $870 in "a little over two weeks' time," according to Jones.

According to council estimates during June, no more than $1,000 would be needed for the three-month trial period of the program. Under the trial program, all Sedalians 60 years of age and over may ride the city's taxi's for a 50 per cent reduction in fare. The remainder of the fare is paid from city coffers.

Jones told the council that the basic reason for the higher cost was the large number of persons taking advantage of the program.

Eidson again appears on full-time mayor

Robert Eidson, 2601 South Stewart, Monday night made his second appearance before the City Council in the last three weeks and once against blasted the council for inaction on the full-time mayor proposal.

Eidson distributed a petition requesting "the members of the City Council enact by ordinance setting forth requirements for the office of mayor as was voted on in the election of April 3, 1973."

"As it stands now we have a vest-pocket veto," Eidson said, as he attempted to move the council to action on the full-time mayor proposal. "I don't know why if you ask me to vote on this, why you don't carry through on the peoples' wishes," Eidson said.

"I think you're talking about something

The council also approved the appointment of an art committee to acquire artistic decorations for the new Municipal Building. The members, who were nominated in July by Mayor Jerry Jones, and approved Monday are:

Mrs. Hazel Simpson, David Jeffries, Mrs. Martha McAnally, Jack Bloess, Mrs. Millie Hopkins, William Eschbacher, Mrs. Sharon Mateja, Mrs. Ellen Quig, Mrs. Myrna Ragar, Mrs. Barbara Cooney and Mrs. Margaret Edwards.

Also passed was a resolution altering the language of a provision in one of the city's previous applications to receive a Housing and Urban Development grant of $172,147 for the financing of a community center in the old St. Patrick's school building. According to Jones, the resolution established a price of $187,000 which the city will pay to St. Patrick's Church. In return St. Patrick's will give the city $55,000.

This resolution was made necessary by a

Economic director tenders resignation

Bill Hall

Bill Hall, director of economic development since Dec. 1, 1965, tendered his resignation, to become effective Aug. 31, 1973, to the City Council at its meeting Monday night.

Hall explained, in a letter addressed to Councilman Donald F. Broadus, chairman of the Economic Development Board, that he felt "new, fresh ideas are always welcome and needed. With that thought in mind, I therefore tender my resignation as director of the department..."

Commenting on Hall's sudden announcement, Mayor Jerry Jones said that he had knowledge of Hall's plans before Monday night and expressed regret that Hall was leaving his position, although he indicated it was his understanding that Hall would remain in Sedalia.

Hall indicated Monday that he was considering "a couple of things in the works" and added that he would make his future plans known in the next two or three weeks.

Explaining his action, Hall said, "Sometimes you just feel like you have a chance to improve yourself and move on to something else."

In his letter, the Pineville, Mo., native recounted his associations with past mayors and councilmen and members of the Economic Development Board as gratifying experiences. "All of the people I have had the privilege to work with have made my job infinitely more delightful and easier."

Hall expressed optimism about Sedalia's opportunities for growth saying, "Sedalia citizens have proven that they have a real interest in their community. They have provided inspiration and proper criticism to create an atmosphere of solid growth in industry and business. They have helped to create new job opportunities and make industry feel that not only are they needed, but wanted."

"There is no comparison," Hall wrote, "between Sedalia and any other community as to livability. The attitude of the business and industrial family has been one of cooperation and inspiration with and to this office."

Asked if he was considering seeking the job of Henry Maddox, director of the State Department of Commerce and Industrial Development, who recently resigned, Hall indicated he had inquired about the position in the past but declined to say whether he actively was pursuing it.

Hall is a member of the American Industrial Development Council and the Southern Industrial Development Council. He is one of 13 founders and has served as chairman of the Missouri Industrial Development Society. In October, 1970, he was elected to a fellow of the council by the board of directors of the AIDC and was

Shoppers fearing higher prices, shortages stocking up on meat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shoppers in scattered parts of the nation are reported to be stocking up on meat in fear of higher prices or a serious shortage. They're "like kids going after cookies," one grocer observed.

A survey indicates higher prices of some meat products, occasional rationing of beef and industry predictions of more problems to come.

A number of bulk purchasers, including New York City and several Navy installations, reported they had run out of beef.

In San Francisco, a federal judge refused on Monday to order the Cost of Living Council to lift the freeze on beef prices. U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham turned down a preliminary injunction request from the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association, which represents 80 wholesalers and packers of beef products.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said again that the freeze will remain in effect until Sept. 12.

On the retail level, grocers reported some shortages and expressed fear the worst was still to come. There was only scattered rationing by stores, however.

The manager of a supermarket near Spokane, Wash., said he was limiting purchases of ground beef, pot roasts and chicken but not steak. "We wouldn't have this problem if the customers would ration themselves," Bill Scalsie said. "We can't watch them all the time. When I go out and come back, there's no meat in the case."

U.S. citizens are also buying foreign beef. Customs inspectors in California report large numbers of Americans returning from Tijuana, Mexico, with meat purchases.

Butcher shops in Tijuana report selling meat to Americans as fast as they get it from the slaughterhouse. Customs officials Albany, N.Y., also reported an increase in Americans returning with Canadian meat.

New York City has run out of beef for prisoners, hospital patients and day-care children. In Quonset Point, R.I., the naval officer who purchases food for commissaries in New England said he has been unable to buy meat for the 80,000 to 100,000 patrons in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

The shortage has been attributed in part to the unwillingness of farmers to send their cattle to market during the freeze. "There's a lot of beef that's not getting to the market. It's out in the pasture," Culbertson said.

The reduction of beef going to market continued to cause cutbacks in packinghouses. The Amalgamated Meat Cutters in Dallas-Fort Worth said on Monday that 500 of 1,500 butchers in the area had been laid off.

A number of markets reported higher prices on meats. A Seattle store reported loin pork chops in the last 10 days have risen from $1.59 to $1.98 a pound and fryer chickens from 69 to 98 cents a pound. Chicken legs in some New Hampshire stores jumped from 89 cents a pound last week to $1.39 on Monday.

The Georgia Cattleman's Association reported increased cattle rustling and field butchering. And the Indiana Natural Resources Department said deer poaching was on the increase in that state.

Spain the setting for conference on occult

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Add to travel offerings that include opera tours, tours of castles and trips on sailing vessels to nowhere, one that should take its participants out of this world — The International Conference on Parapsychology and the Occult Sciences to be held in Spain.
It is scheduled to be more than a spook-to-spook hookup. Seminars are to be conducted in every aspect of the occult, including one on witchcraft by Sybil Leek, says the tour's director, Professor Hans Holzer, author of some 33 books on various aspects of the occult, and one of three who will conduct classes for ESP (Extra Sensory Perception) students, members and associates of his study groups.

The seminar was prompted by the growing interest in ESP, explained Holzer, who teaches ESP at the New York School of Technology, one of about eight schools now giving courses in it, he says.

"There is nothing supernatural about ESP. Everybody is born with it (the ability to experience a knowledge of events at a distance without being there) but ESP works through the emotions and it cannot be reproduced at will. A genuine need is necessary for it to happen and it is set off by a breakdown in communications — danger or sickness — of a loved one," he explained.

About half of the students he has taught have had ESP experiences and wanted to know more about them. People in the outer Scottish Islands are very psychic. American Indians, Africans and other primitive societies for whom telepathy "is a natural" are more with ESP than people in the United States, he remarked. But Americans shouldn't feel bad — they have more ghosts and haunted houses than other peoples. But we could get back our ESP by learning to live with nature, he remarked.

The interest in ecology has awakened more young people to it because they are living in a natural environment with trees and plants, he observed. Women relate more quickly than men as they are likely to be more psychic. In nature women are the intuitive element, he says, but then, in his opinion, "women are superior to men biologically, physically and emotionally."

Six of Holzer's books have been about ghosts and he has received many letters from people who need help.

"Sometimes they dream something that happens later, sometimes they hear footsteps or doors opening by themselves or strange human voices — and no one there..." he said.

Holzer has heard voices. On two occasions, three years ago, an old friend seemed to be calling him distinctly. Holzer finally decided to call the man's widow, who, he said, "was indeed in great difficulties."

He considers himself "an historical detective." His newest book, "The Hapsburg Curse," is all about the curse "which is not one, but two," he insists. It was a long time between curses, he discovered when he put his detective ear to the historical sounding board — one curse occurred in the 12th century and the other was brought about by the Hungarian Revolution in 1849.

In addition to Sybil Leek's talks on mediumship, numerology and her witchcraft specialty, there will be talks by Dr. Douglas Baker, British parapsychologist, and the Spanish authority on psychic phenomena, Dr. German de Argumosa y Valdes, at the seminars. Holzer's classes will be on psychic photography (scientific evidence for ghosts), reincarnation and hypnosis, as well as ESP.

Polly's pointers

She has complaints for manufacturers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I have two particular Pet Peeves. One is that boys' pants do not have the sizes marked. I have three boys and at the change of the seasons we get out all the pants to try on. Instead of being able to read what sizes they are, each pair has to be tried on and passed around until the proper wearer is found. Also, I wonder why toy and game manufacturers do not put their products in sturdier containers. Many games just have a plastic covering without even a lid and how is one supposed to store them without losing some of the pieces? Sometimes I think that the whole purpose is to force us to replace such things sooner. — MRS. P.R.P.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — What do you and the other readers do when baby's rubber pants split at the seams? Has anyone ever tried ironing them back together? I have so many pairs with splits and certainly hate to have to throw them out. — BARBARA

DEAR POLLY — Lorraine can use her leftover needlepoint yarn to make patchwork needlepoint pillows. Cut and bind the canvas so it is at least one inch wider all around than the pillow. Use an INDELIBLE, waterproof pen to block off the desired assorted shapes and then do these sections in various colors, shapes and stitches. I plan it all out on paper so the colors, etc., are distributed to the best advantage. — MRS. R.T.

DEAR POLLY — and Lorraine — I used leftover yarn for making covers for coat hangers. Crochet a piece long and wide enough to wrap around the hanger and then sew it on. It does not matter how the colors match or meet. Such hangers look so pretty hanging in a closet. — MARGARET

DEAR GIRLS — Margaret's idea is great for using leftover knitting wool, but needlepoint wool is quite expensive to put to this use unless the hangers are to be very special. Also, needlepoint wool is usually cut in short lengths so would be hard to crochet without a lot of knotting and joining. — POLLY

Show has new coanchors

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, it's finally under way. After a heavy meet-the-press and publicity campaign, Hughes Rudd and Sally Quinn have begun life as coanchors of the "CBS Morning News."

However, their dawn debut Monday was slightly under Whoopie on television's scale of excitement, despite pledges by CBS-TV the new offering would be livelier and less formal than before.

The hour-long show seemed about the same as when headed by John Hart and Nelson Benton. Only the cast, set and ad libs were new.

NBC's durable "Today" show, which has been beating all comers since 1952, took no notice whatsoever Monday of the potential ratings threat posed by the new CBS team. It did nothing out of the ordinary.

It just moved outdoors to Rockefeller Plaza, brought in Duke Ellington's band and held a tennis exhibition on the plaza's private road between 49th and 50th streets. Nothing unusual there.

For Rudd, a 14-year veteran of reporting for CBS, the new job seemed old hat. Miss Quinn, with four years logged on the Washington Post but no prior television experience, seemed to have any opening-day jitters under control, despite a bad cold.

CBS says the cold was so bad that, just before the show, Miss Quinn was rushed to a hospital for a quick checkup and medication. She immediately repaired to her bed when the show was over.

"Wouldn't you know the first day I come on television I start out with a sore throat and a fever?" she joked as the program began.

"Well, a fever is all right as long as it doesn't make you delirious," mused Mudd. "Actually, there've been a lot of people on television who were delirious. They're usually running for public office."

But after that start, the quality of commentary—on Miss Quinn's part—tended to wander, fall flat or come out just plain silly, particularly after a film story on child labor on California farms.

"I can remember when my father and mother wanted me to clean my room—I thought that was child labor," said Miss Quinn, the daughter of an Army general. "Have you ever tried to pick strawberries for half an hour?"

"You can't do it. It's just absolutely killing work."

Sally Quinn's debut

Sally Quinn, 32, an expatriot of newspaper journalism, made her television debut Monday and moments later was on her way to the hospital. Miss Quinn, CBS's challenge to NBC's Barbara Walters as reigning queen of morning television, was found to have nothing more serious than the flu and went home to bed. (UPI)

Miss Quinn, a good, waspish writer, would have murdered anyone using that line, were she still in the newspaper game. So blame the fever and wait to see how things look when she feels better.

She only seemed up to par when participating in a four-way grilling of Patrick Buchanan, President Nixon's speechwriter.

Interim president past school head

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Franc L. McCluer, a former president of the Lindenwood Colleges here, will assume the post of interim president at the school Sept. 1.

McCluer will head the colleges until a permanent successor to John Anthony Brown Jr., is found, officials said. Brown announced his resignation effective Sept. 1 last month.

CBS, looking for improved ratings after years of trying to lure away the "Today" audience, says the new morning news show is carried in its entirety by 161 stations, including all five CBS-owned stations.

Prior to Monday, the show was carried in full by 110 CBS affiliates and in part by another 50, CBS spokesmen say.

McCluer headed the Lindenwood Colleges from 1947 until 1966, when Brown took over, and has been president emeritus since 1966.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Blood circulates like conveyor belt

Dear Dr. Lamb — A few months ago I experienced a coronary occlusion and was told that this caused me to have pulmonary edema. Would you kindly explain please? Also I would like to understand the action of the heart and lungs. Does the heartbeat or contractions cause the blood to pass through the valves in both ventricles at the same time?

Dear Reader — Space won't permit a detailed discussion of how the heart and lungs function. I devoted two chapters to the mechanics of how the heart and lungs work in my book "Your Heart and How To Live With It" (The Viking Press, 625 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10022, price $5.95).

Simply stated, you should think of the circulation as a continuous conveyor belt of blood passing through all of the body. The blood returns from most of the body to the right side of the heart and is circulated through it to the lungs to take on oxygen. The blood returns from the lungs to the left side of the heart. The blood is pumped by the left side of the heart to the brain and most of the body.

Literally, the veins and right side of the heart convey the un-oxygenated blood, while the blood returning from the lungs, going through the left side of the heart and out to the arteries, is the red oxygenated blood.

The right and left ventricles, the power part of the heart, are muscular pumping chambers. They do contract at the same time and simultaneously force blood to move along toward the lungs from the right side of the heart or to the rest of the body from the left side of the heart. The blood is constantly moving, since the arteries and veins are full, and each time the heart beats it merely adds more blood to the continuous moving stream.

In your problem you developed a blockage in the artery that goes to the pumping heart muscle. Almost always it's the left ventricle that's involved. Because the muscle to the left side of the heart doesn't get enough blood it may weaken and be unable to pump (contract) with enough force until it is properly healed. Because the heart muscle is weakened it can't pump very strongly. The continuous circulation of blood then accumulates in the left side of the heart rather than being propelled out to the entire body. The blood literally backs up and causes an accumulation of blood in the lung. This in turn causes water to seep out from the blood vessels in the lung into the air spaces causing shortness of breath or the accumulation of fluid. The accumulation of fluid in the lungs is pulmonary edema.

If the muscle recovers well and there's good healing without too much damage, then the left ventricular muscle is able to contract strong enough again to propel blood in a normal fashion. These individuals are said to have made a good recovery from an acute heart attack. If the muscle is too severely damaged, then it will still be weak and not pump blood out fast enough, which will result in an accumulation of blood and eventually fluid in the lungs. In this instance, digitalis and related medicines are given to help improve the heart function.

Woman pleads guilty to manslaughter

POTOSI, Mo. (AP) — Bernie Helms of Washington, Mo., pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter Monday in connection with the death of her husband last year.

Judge Phillip Hess of Washington County Circuit Court here set Sept. 28 for sentencing.

The body of Richard G. Helms Sr., was found by authorities in a burning car near Dutziow, Mo., in May 1972. Police initially thought Helms died in a traffic accident but later discovered he had been shot.

The couple's son, Richard Jr., was sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty to first-degree murder charges in connection with the slaying.

There won't be any paddleboats on the Liberty Park Lagoon. At least not for now.

The Sedalia Park Board voted Monday night to abandon the idea of renting paddleboats on the lagoon following a lack of public support for the plan.

During discussion prior to the vote, most board members indicated they had found little public enthusiasm for the project. Criticisms centered about the fee to be charged, the 10-year age minimum for users, and whether the lagoon was large enough for the boats.

"I know there are parks that have paddleboats," said board member Marvin Welch. "There were some people just opposed to paying a fee."

The board also agreed to hold a dinner and news conference to welcome the park department's newly-appointed recreation director. The event honoring Roscoe Righter will be held Aug. 27, which will also be his first working day.

Righter is a University of Missouri graduate holding a master's degree in recreational and park administration. He was recently employed by the Springfield park and recreation department. The location of the dinner will be announced later.

It was also learned that applications for a secretary's job are to be directed to Park Superintendent Jack Coutts who will compile and submit them to the board. Coutts indicated the secretary would handle both his and Righter's work.

In other business, member Ray Young asked the board to consider placing a bicycle rack at the Centennial Park Pool. Coutts said he would look into the matter.

It was also announced that the city pools will be closed during Sedalia Day at the Missouri State Fair, but will be open regular hours during the rest of the fair.

Kansas crash claims life of Joplin man

BURLINGTON, Kan. (AP) — Douglas Renburg, 19, Joplin, Mo., was killed early Tuesday in the collision of his car and a semi-trailer truck on highway 75 about 9 miles north of Burlington.

The driver of the truck, Hanford Roberts, 49, Mesquite, Tex., was reported in critical condition at Stormont-Vail Hospital in Topeka, Kan.

A co-driver of the truck, Herless Burton, 33, Richardson, Tex., was described as in fair condition.

Renburg was alone in the car.

DEATH NOTICES

Oscar Daniel Joslin

Oscar Daniel Joslin, 84, 1808 South Missouri, died at 1:15 p.m. Monday at Bothwell Hospital after an apparent heart attack.

He was born at Conway, Ark., May 9, 1889, the son of the late George D. and Anna Eliza Hargis Joslin.

On May 4, 1923 he married Amanda Rethemeyer. She survives.

Mr. and Mrs. Joslin lived most of their married life in Kansas City.

Until his retirement several years ago, Mr. Joslin had been in the floral business.

He was a veteran of World War I, enlisting in Kansas City, Aug. 16, 1917. He served in the Medical Corp. as an ambulance driver with the 355th Infantry. He was honorably discharged at Camp Pike, Ark., Nov. 18, 1918.

Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Nattie Wofford, Conway, Ark.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Friday.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Caterpillar rollers are reported stolen

Bob McNeely, manager of the Dean Machinery Co., 1620 West Main, reported to police that 10 D-7 Caterpillar rollers, valued at $800, were apparently stolen from the company premises.

McNeely said that the rollers had actually been missing since July 12, but it had been thought that they were being used by someone. After checking with various sources and finding that none of them had the rollers, it was realized that they had probably been stolen and police were notified.

A plate glass window, valued at $80, was broken at Owen's General Tire Co., 701 South Ohio, it was reported.

The vandalism is believed to have occurred on Aug. 1 and the glass was apparently either hit hard or had an object thrown through it.

An undetermined amount of change was taken from a soft drink machine at Kenney's Coin-O-Matic Laundry No. 2, 2811 East 12th, around 1:30 Monday afternoon, according to police reports. The machine was entered by prying open the front door with some type of instrument.

A beer truck, belonging to Whitaker and Co., 301 East Main, that had allegedly been stolen by two juveniles Sunday night, was originally reported by police to have been located near the building's dock with the keys in the ignition at the time of the theft.

A second police report indicated that the truck was actually located inside the old Hermann Lumber Co. building at Main and Massachusetts and that the two youths had to break into the building in order to take the truck.

The juveniles were taken into custody by police less than an hour after the alleged theft occurred and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Truman Dam appeal returned to judge

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An appeal to halt work on the Truman Dam near Warsaw, Mo. has been returned from the U.S. Court of Appeals, eighth circuit, to the U.S. District Court of Judge John W. Oliver here.

Judge Oliver had taken under advisement a motion by the Environmental Defense Fund, Inc. to halt new contracts and challenge an environmental statement prepared by the engineers.

The environmentalists turned to the appeals court when Judge Oliver refused to grant the motion immediately.

The suit seeks to enjoin the engineers from awarding the multi-million dollar contract for generator design and fabrication.

Another accidental bombing is reported

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Another accidental U.S. bombing near here was reported today as the U.S. Embassy announced casualties in the B52 bombing Monday of a government base town on the Mekong River totaled more than 400 dead and wounded.

The second bombing in error, this time by a U.S. F111 fighter-bomber, was reported to have killed four civilians and injured 13 on a government-held island southeast of Phnom Penh in the Mekong.

The island was six miles upstream from Neak Luong, the naval base town on which a U.S. B52 heavy bomber dropped a string of bombs before dawn Monday.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Donald Doergel said he had heard reports of the second bombing accident but "I don't wish to talk about it."

There was no letup in the U.S. bombing. Heavy explosions could be heard from areas around Phnom Penh as U.S. fighter-bombers kept up their support of government ground forces. There was no word of B52 operations, but it was considered unlikely that there had been any curtailment because of the tragedy at Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The casualty toll at Neak Luong rose today as U.S. Embassy officials said the count now was 137 killed and 268 injured.

It was the worst bombing accident of the Indochina war, and it came just nine days before American bombing of Cambodia is scheduled to end. The worst previous such incident was the American bombing of the South Vietnamese village of Lang Vei on March 2, 1967, when 83 villagers were killed and 176 wounded.

The U.S. air attaché in Phnom Penh, Col. David H. E. Opfer, 47, of Baltimore, visited Neak Luong four hours after the predawn bombing and said it resulted from "human or mechanical error."

The Pentagon said part of one B52's bombs fell short of the target.

"There are two factors—men and machines—and they can go wrong," Opfer told a midnight news conference punctuated by the thud of distant bomb explosions. "Somehow or other this plane went astray and Neak Luong was bombed by accident."

A string of more than 30 bombs hit in a line more than two-thirds of a mile long down the main street of the town, the colonel reported. He said the bombs blasted the office and living quarters of the garrison commander, Lt. Col. An Nil, who was unhurt; the market place; a hospital; a military command post; and army and marine living quarters.

"There were several bombs in the central market area, but it was early in the morning and fortunately not many people were there. While the sheds were heavily damaged, tables in the market were untouched," he said.

Opfer said a small ammunition dump exploded but the main depot escaped.

Asked about his reception in the town, Opfer replied: "People were sad, but they accepted that this is war and these things happen. There was no animosity."

"I tried to say I was sorry, but how can you say you are sorry."

private contractors to Baltimore County and Maryland political figures.

The Journal said the investigation is being conducted by U.S. Atty. George Beall of Baltimore and that Agnew was notified formally by the Justice Department last week in a hand-delivered letter.

The newspaper said the vice president sought a White House audience after learning of the investigation, presumably to inform President Nixon.

A Nixon spokesman declined comment Monday night but said the White House was aware of Agnew's statement before it was released.

The Journal said the letter to Agnew was cleared by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who then notified Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, although there is no direct connection of the case with Watergate.

Beall, a 36-year-old Republican appointed U.S. attorney by Nixon in 1970, refused to confirm or deny that Agnew has become a subject of his investigation. The New York law firm of Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison is representing Agnew and a spokesman said a representative would be in Washington today to find out more about the case.

The Journal said Agnew has not been called to testify in the case and the prosecutors have not presented the evidence they have assembled to a grand jury sitting in Baltimore.

If the case did proceed to the grand jury stage, the prosecutors would have to confront the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers, the doctrine Nixon is invoking in the Watergate case, the Journal said.

Nixon

your mind. What did Petersen say to you?" Kleindienst said.

He said Ehrlichman replied, "In a polite way he told me to go you know where."

Kleindienst said he then told Ehrlichman, "You could have been involved in an obstruction of justice complaint."

"I told him never to call anyone in my department and give instructions," Kleindienst said. He said he told Ehrlichman to call him instead, but Ehrlichman complained he couldn't always reach the attorney general directly, and would not agree to that.

Kleindienst said if Nixon personally authorized Ehrlichman to give instructions to Justice Department personnel, "I will submit my resignation."

"By then he started kidding, 'Don't get excited. It won't happen again.' And it never happened again," Kleindienst said.

Kleindienst said Liddy approached him at the Burning Tree Country Club the day of the break-in and told him some of the five men arrested in the Watergate complex might be employed by the White House or the Nixon campaign committee.

"My reaction to that statement was instantaneous and rather abrupt," said Kleindienst, who became head of the Justice Department shortly before that time.

Kleindienst said he immediately called Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division of the Justice Department, and told him in Liddy's presence that no special treatment should be given to the arrested men.

"I told him I was rather intent on giving him a rather specific direct instruction right then, that with respect to those arrested in the Watergate, they should be given no treatment different from others arrested in circumstances of that kind," Kleindienst said.

He said he immediately told Liddy to leave the premises, along with Powell Moore, a public relations man for the Nixon campaign committee who had accompanied Liddy.

Liquor license expansion bill vetoed by Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill designed to expand resort liquor licenses to any unincorporated area in the state was vetoed today by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

Under a 1967 law, only resorts in counties bordered by a lake with 200 miles of shoreline (Lake of the Ozarks and Table Rock Lake) can have the licenses for sale by the drink. There are eight such resorts at Table Rock and from 50 to 100 around Lake of the Ozarks, a governor's spokesman said.

The new bill would have removed the restriction that the resort had to be in a county bordering lakes with 200 miles of shoreline.

The 1967 law says the resorts can retain their licenses if they are annexed to a city which allows liquor by the drink.

Bond, who said he consulted with the liquor control supervisor about the bill, said an amendment provided that no licenses could be issued to resorts in incorporated areas. The bill would have applied to establishments where the restaurant brings in at least 50 per cent of the business.

Bond said it would be "inherently unfair" to have a resort lose its license if the area in which it located is annexed by a city.

The governor would not say what his position was on extending liquor by the drink throughout the state.

change in HUD regulations, which now stipulate that the city must pay 100 per cent of the appraised value of the school building, rather than the previously-permitted 75 per cent.

With the passage of the resolution, the city has apparently completed the final two corrections measures in order to receive the federal funds to help finance the construction of the center. The remaining cost will be met by $23,000 in city money and $63,000 in private donations.

The first of these final two correction requirements was fulfilled recently when a page in the city's book-like grant request form was retyped to correct a typographical error in the legal description of the school site.

Then bids were read for various needs including destruction of buildings, acquisition of a new meter department scooter, typewriters for the police department, and a new city garage building. All bids were returned to appropriate committees for approval of the best and/or lowest bids.

In other action, the council adopted an ordinance allowing a section of city-owned land on North Massachusetts and on North Main near the Missouri Pacific railroad right of way to be used by the Looney-Bloss Lumber Co. The resolution will have no effect on any other easements, it was learned.

Approval was also given by the council for Older Adults Transportation Service meetings to be held in the Municipal Building. Also approved were applications by W. A. Bingham and Jim Mathewson for liquor licenses.

On request from an attorney for Charles Patton, 2006 South Marvin, the council tabled action on a Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation pertaining to Patton's request for a zoning reclassification. Patton was unable to attend Monday's meeting. The commission had recommended denial of Patton's application to rezone property near the junior high school from residential to commercial to permit construction of an auto repair shop.

The council accepted the resignation of the Rev. Charles A. Pfeiffer from his post with the Human Rights Commission. Councilman Jesse Robinson was absent.

Garriott observes the sun

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Dr. Owen K. Garriott, the first solar physicist to fly in space, got his long-awaited chance to observe the sun through Skylab's telescopes today.

While Garriott manned the telescope console, his Skylab 2 crewmates, Alan L. Bean and Jack R. Lousma, concentrated on medical experiments in the orbiting laboratory.

Mission Control let them sleep an hour later than usual because of a heavy day Monday in which they wrote a record space walk into the books.

The Skylab 1 astronauts earlier operated the solar astronomy telescopes, but Garriott's training as a solar physicist should enable him to make many on-the-spot decisions and evaluations.

He initially aimed the instruments at "active region 85," an area of the sun where ground observers have detected several moderate solar flares recently.

By studying the sun from above the earth's obscuring atmosphere, scientists hope the Skylab astronauts will be able to determine how the sun affects weather and communications on earth.

They also hope to unlock the secret of controlled nuclear fusion, which is the source of the sun's enormous energy. This would aid in a search for an unlimited and pollution-free power source on earth.

Before Garriott began his study today, a flight controller reported: "Owen's been pacing back and forth, wondering when in the dickens he'd get a chance at the solar telescope console. Now he'll finally get his chance."

Garriott and Lousma loaded the telescope cameras with film Monday during a record space walk in which they were outside the station 6 hours, 31 minutes. That's nearly double the previous mark set by two Skylab 1 astronauts in June.

During the excursion, they also raised a new sunshade over their space home, worked with two scientific experiments and examined three trouble areas on the spacecraft.

Monday's space walk had been set for 3½ hours, but it was extended an extra three hours because of difficulties in erecting the shade.

They discovered no new clues to Skylab's problems.

The major problems afflicting the station on the 11th day of the Skylab 2 mission are:

—Leaks in two steering rocket systems on the Apollo taxi ship in which the astronauts are to return to earth on Sept. 25 after 59 days in space. Experts say the craft is still flyable. In case they don't understand the problem, or it gets worse, the space agency has ordered a rescue rocket prepared at Cape Kennedy for a possible launch Sept. 10 or later.

—A leak in a refrigeration system that cools the workshop and various electric equipment. On Monday it was feared both the primary and backup systems had leaks. Analysis showed that only the primary system was faulty and that the secondary is sufficient to support Skylab 2, as well as the following two-month Skylab 3 mission. Still, troubleshooters would like to know the cause of the leak.

—A large short circuit that occurred in the solar telescope system last week. Its origin is a puzzle, but so far it has not affected the experiments.

—Partial failure of a system that removes excess moisture from the cabin atmosphere. It requires frequent servicing to maintain proper pressure.

Leading economists believe business nearing recession

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — While 1973 has been a boom year so far, a number of leading economists believe business is in the early stage of a slowdown that could accelerate into recession proportions by mid-1974.

Most of the economists interviewed by The Associated Press expected the slowdown would continue and probably worsen next year, but few made an outright prediction of recession. When they did, they said it would be moderate and not necessarily bad for the country or consumers.

The economists were in general agreement on three other major economic questions.

They predicted:

—The inflation rate would continue to rise, but not as sharply as this year.

—Unemployment would increase slightly to 5 or 5½ per cent.

—A credit crunch on the order of 1969-70 was unlikely, although interest rates would remain steep.

When a slowdown becomes a recession can be a semantic problem. The National Bureau of Economic Research defines a recession as two or more consecutive quarters of decline in the "real" Gross National Product — GNP — discounted for price increases.

Many economists are now talking in terms of a 1974 "growth recession," in which real GNP continues to expand but at less than its customary minimum level of 4-4½ per cent.

One economist who believes an actual recession is inevitable and the only question is when it will occur is Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago.

A monetarist who links growth of the money supply to rising prices, Friedman sees recession as good for the national interest. He says it would "correct" prices that have been driven sky high by the country's insatiable demand for goods and services.

It all depends on the policies of the Federal Reserve Board, which acts as the nation's money manager, according to Friedman. If the Fed tightens the country's money supply it would increase the likelihood of a recession in 1974, but if the Fed allows money to expand at the level of the first six months of this year that prospect would be delayed.

"You can only go on a drinking bout for so long," says Friedman. "Sooner or later you're going to have a hang-over."

Another economist who expects an actual recession is Albert Sommers of the Conference Board, a nonprofit economic research organization.

But he believes it can be "quite moderate" because there are plenty of cushioning influences. These include a turnaround in the U.S. trade balance as a result of the two dollar devaluations and the general optimism of business regarding long-term capital spending.

But the average American worker may take home a somewhat slimmer paycheck, Sommers says.

"It will mean less overtime and a certain amount of layoffs, but we're not talking about a deep recession."

John Kendrick, a fellow economist with Sommers at the Conference Board, disagrees with his colleague's predictions. Kendrick says an actual recession in 1974 is possible but a growth recession is much more likely.

He sees the deepening slowdown as a direct consequence of a corporate profit squeeze induced by Phase 4 controls. While business could suffer next year, it might not be so bad for workers, he adds.

"The consumer will be getting ahead of the game a little bit," Kendrick predicts. "Wage rates will go up 6-6½ per cent and there will be some slowdown in inflation, with prices rising 4-5 per cent. So he'll see some improvement in terms of purchasing power."

Consumers' buying plans indicate they're becoming more cautious in their appraisal of future economic conditions. A May-June survey by the Conference Board indicates a "significant decrease" in the number of families who expect business conditions to improve and an increase in the number who think they'll get worse.

St. Joseph beef plant is closed

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — One of this city's major beef packing operations closed Monday and another said it may have to follow suit next week.

Dugdale Packing Plant closed because the price of cattle was too high, the volume too low, according to David Logan, company president. The plant slaughtered 950 head of cattle a day before the price of beef was frozen. The closing means layoffs for 200 workers.

E. Y. Lingle, chairman of the Seitz packing plant in St. Joseph, said he did not know if his plant could remain open next week. He said 125 workers would be laid off if he has to close the beef slaughtering operation.

Lingle said the plant usually slaughtered 1,800 to 1,900 cattle a day, but could get only 1,200 a day last week.

"You can always buy cattle," Lingle said. "It's just a question of how much you want to stay open."

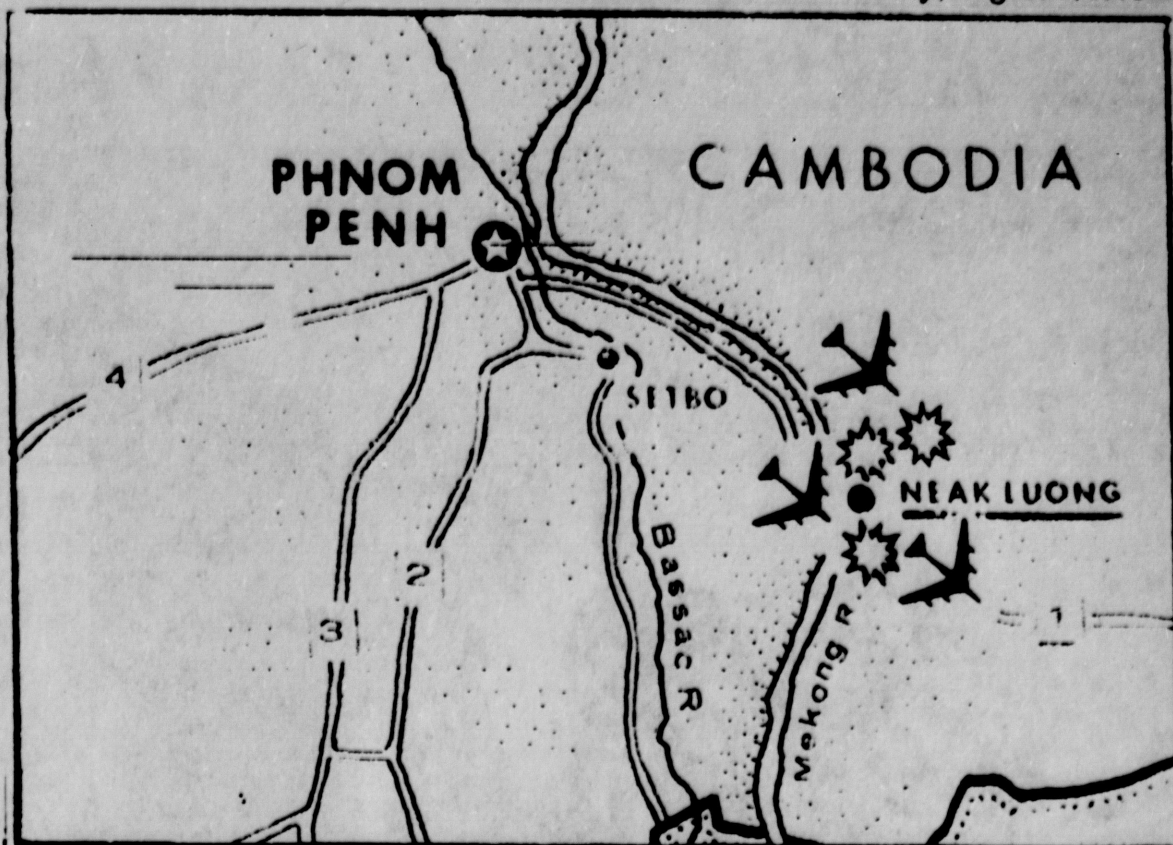

He noted the price of cattle at the farm level is not frozen, but it is at the wholesale and retail levels and it was just a matter of how long packers want to continue losing money to service their customers.

Logan said he hoped to be able to open his plant shortly after the beef price freeze ends Sept. 12 and would so soon as it became economically feasible.

Two youngsters killed in accident

LAKIN, Kan. (AP) — Two children enroute to a softball game were killed Monday night in the collision of two cars on US 50, one mile west of Lakin, Kan.

The Kearney County sheriff's office identified the victims as Brian Eugene Morris, 3, Garden City, and Anita Jean Harsh, 9, Holcomb, Kan.

Town destroyed

At least 300 Cambodian civilians and soldiers were killed or wounded before dawn Monday at Neak Luong in an accidental bombing strike on the area by U.S. Air Force B52s, Cambodian officials said. The town, a ferry crossing town 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and considered the most important defense position along the Mekong River, was destroyed. (UPI)

Professor files suit on bombing

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A law professor is asking a federal court to declare the U.S. bombing of Cambodia unconstitutional.

Dr. James R. Ahrens, who teaches constitutional law at Washburn University in Topeka, filed the suit in district court as a class action on behalf of all U.S. citizens.

Although the bombing is scheduled to stop Aug. 15, Ahrens said Monday, "I still feel the American people are owed a constitutional ruling in this area. It would definitely have some relevance to future military operations."

Defendants in the suit are Elliott L. Richardson, former secretary of defense and now U.S. attorney general; Robert C. Seamans, secretary of the Air Force; William C. Clements, former acting secretary of defense, and James R. Schlesinger, present secretary of defense.

Ahrens said in his suit the bombing of Cambodia is being done without congressional approval, which he said deprives him and his congressmen of their rights. The U.S. Constitution requires approval of Congress for such operations, he said.

Kidnap warning by Ichord

WASHINGTON (AP) — No political kidnappings have occurred on American soil, but Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., says "We must not be beguiled into feeling that it can't happen here."

Ichord is chairman of the House Internal Security Committee which released a report Monday on kidnaps or attempts on 21 Americans around the world, including six who were killed.

The committee staff studied 42 successful or attempted major political kidnapping cases since 1968.

In a foreword to the 54-page report, Ichord said there are "numerous groups and individuals acting independently to create the climate of terror that the guerillas will so undermine the government as to bring about its complete destruction."

Ichord said "a violent militant minority" of the U.S. Socialist Workers party backed such terrorist tactics as political kidnappings by an affiliate in Argentina.

Jail escapees are arraigned

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two escapees of the Boone County jail were arraigned Monday on charges of escape, assaulting the jailer, and stealing his money.

Edward Robertson, 21, and James Latter, 26, fled the jail Friday night and were captured Sunday morning.

Bond for the two men was set at $10,000 each.

Sheriff Jack Meyer has asked a special three-member panel to investigate the conduct of the jailer. Meyer said it is possible the jailer violated some sheriff's department regulations.

Joplin's history retraced in talk

"Everyone else around the country is aware of our heritage, except many of our own Sedalians," Larry Melton told Rotarians at noon Monday at the club's regular meeting at Bothwell Hotel, "and the planning and staging of the Scott Joplin Festival next July 25-27 will provide an opportunity for all of us to become involved."

Melton, coordinator of the Festival committee, said that during the brief time since the announcement of the Festival many inquiries have been received from all over the country and that estimates of the crowd the three-day event would draw had grown from 1,000 to five times that number. Many people, he said, will come just to see the spot and monument where ragtime music began.

Melton traced the life of Joplin from his birth in Texarkana in 1868, his graduation from high school in that city in 1885, to his arrival on the Sedalia scene in 1893 and his stay here until 1900. It was while he was in Sedalia, then a bustling railroad community with the true 'gay '90's' atmosphere, that he composed and made popular "The Maple Leaf Rag" which was published by Sedalian John Starke.

More than one million copies were sold — the largest sale of any musical number up to that time. Joplin during his lifetime composed 53 piano pieces of record and wrote two operas.

Melton intimated that one of the operas which has been lost, may turn up at the festival.

Talking over a recording of Joplin's composed ragtime numbers played by popular current ragtime pianists, Melton explained how ragtime music was sweeping the country and how Joplin's music today is recognized by many as the work of a musical genius. Joplin, he said, looked on his works as classical, as interpreted by the artist Ripkin. The early movies used his ragtime creations for the honky-tonk sound played during film presentations, and still other artists added a faster beat to interpret ragtime in the jazz mood.

Melton called attention to the part Abe Rosenthal, Harlan Snow, Bill "Lucky" Hill and Bill Hopkins had played in the late 50s and early to mid-60s in keeping alive Sedalia's claim as birthplace of ragtime and the recognition of Scott Joplin as the creator and producer of the first ragtime music.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Hopkins, August program chairman, who also introduced Mrs. Karen Melton, the speaker's wife, and Mrs. Hopkins, who were guests for the meeting. Other guests presented by Ted Gault were George Dixon, a Warrensburg Rotarian; Harlan Hassen, guest of Robert Phillips, club president who presided over the meeting, and Bill Atkinson, a medical student whose home is in Harrisonville, who was a guest of Dr. C. G. Stauffacher.

Committee preparing to probe nation's financial structure

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the prime interest rate at an all-time high, the House Banking Committee is preparing to investigate the nation's financial structure and its impact on the credit crunch.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the committee, says he wants the panel to write a plan for stabilizing soaring interest rates.

The prime lending rate, the figure charged banks' most creditworthy customers, reached 9 per cent throughout the industry Monday, the highest rate on record.

The prime rate was 6 per cent at the beginning of the year.

Since January, the Banking Committee staff has been preparing an analysis of financial institutions and regulations and considering possible reforms.

Before Congress began a month-long recess last Friday, Patman, a persistent critic of high lending rates, said his panel will hold hearings in September to "consider all aspects of the current credit crunch and the manner in which it is related to financial structure and regulation."

He promised the committee will draft specific legislation in September or early October to stabilize interest rates.

In a letter to committee members, Patman acknowledged "many divisions of opinion" within the panel about key financial issues.

"But I feel there is general agreement that we must improve the delivery of credit services to the people on more stable and reasonable terms and on a basis which will allow the entire economy to remain competitive and prosper," Patman said. Interest rates are exempt from controls under President Nixon's economic-stabilization program.

Meanwhile, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Tuesday the economic outlook for the year ahead is a 1970-type recession with increases in prices and unemployment.

He gave this gloomy assessment on the basis of hearings he conducted for the Senate House Economic Committee on the state of the economy at midyear.

"I am convinced that there is nothing in our current economic policies that will retard an inflation that we will suffer for years to come," he said in a statement.

"Even worse, as the economy does slow to a recession level, prices will continue to rise sharply," he said.

Treasury Secretary George Shultz said Sunday he is confident the nation is not headed for a recession.

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — An autopsy has revealed Miss Teresa Sue Hilt, 22, a Northwest Missouri State University graduate student, was stabbed to death Saturday.

The report said the Chilli-cothe, Mo., student suffered two wounds in the heart, three in the left lung, five in the left arm and several in the lower body. The report said evidence indicating whether the woman had been sexually molested was inconclusive.

Police said the nude body was found lying face down on her bed with bedding scattered around the room of the apartment, just a block north of the college campus.

Occupants of nearby apartments in the same complex said several apartments had been entered recently.

Police said a nylon stocking was tightly twisted about Miss Hilt's neck and she had bruises on the left cheek and left arm.

John H. Frazee, Nodaway County prosecutor, said there were few leads in the case and friends of the victim were being questioned. No arrests had been made.

Etienne Brule, a subordinate of Samuel de Chaplain, was probably the first white man to cross Lake Erie.

Skeleton tentatively identified as nurse

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) — A skeleton found Monday in a pasture four miles west of here was tentatively identified as that of a 41-year-old Olathe, Kan. nurse who had been missing since July 19.

Franklin County authorities said a dental check was to be made to determine the positive identity of the body believed to be that of Mrs. Wilma Jean Willoughby, Wellsville, Kan., nurse and mother of three children. Tentative identification was made Monday by Dr. James G. Bridgens, of Kansas City.

Mrs. Willoughby was last seen by acquaintances at 11:45 p.m. July 19 as she left the Olathe Community Hospital to drive to her home 23 miles southwest of Olathe. Her 1970 model car was found burning in a ditch near Lenexa, Kan., at 2:30 a.m. the next morning.

The skeleton was found by Charles Schoonover, a farmer who was mowing a field one-fourth of a mile north of U.S. 50.

Schoonover said he found the remains in 10-inch deep hay, scattered over several square feet. There was no sign of clothing.

More than 20 Franklin County officers and KBI agents searched the area Monday and were aided in their search by a helicopter.

The woman's husband, Roscoe Willoughby, who said he is offering a $500 reward for the arrest of those responsible for his wife's death, reported he and his wife often picked up hitchhikers. Willoughby, a worker at Delco Battery plant in Olathe said he last saw his wife when he left home for work at 6:30 a.m. July 19.

At the time of her disappearance, an intensive search was made of the area where the car was found. Dogs, a helicopter and an airplane aided Johnson County officers in the search but no trace of her, or other evidence was found.

It was the fifth unsolved death this year along or near I-35. Three persons—a woman, her son and a friend—were found shot to death March 29 in the woman's car on a country road one-half mile east of U.S. 59 near Ottawa. On U.S. 59 near Garnett, 25 miles south of Ottawa, an unidentified youth was found dead with a skull fracture in a wooded area on April 18.

Motorcyclist killed

BAXTER SPRINGS, Kan. (AP) — Carl White, 54, Galena, Kan., died Monday in a motorcycle accident a half mile north of here on U.S. 66.

New department proposal would end Forest Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department would lose its largest agency under the proposal now before Congress to create a new Department of Energy and Natural Resources in the executive branch.

The Forest Service, which administers the 187-million National Forest Service, would become part of the Land and Recreation Resources Administration of the new department.

Undersecretary J. Phil Campbell recently told a Senate Government Operations subcommittee that he is convinced the reorganization "will promote more effective management of many related natural resource functions ... by consolidating those functions in a new department that would encompass most of the federal activity in this area."

Other agencies earmarked for transfers along with the Forest Service are all from the Interior Department: the National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management, Sports Fisheries and Wildlife and Outdoor Recreation.

Included in the plan is a provision for more-or-less dual control by Agriculture and the new department over the Soil Conservation Service, many of whose watershed projects would go to the new agency.

Briefly, the new department would handle the funds and the Agriculture Department would handle planning and administration as assigned by the new department.

"The quality of Forest Service and Soil Conservation Service performance in water and natural resource matters is unsurpassed by any other agency," Campbell concluded. "Nevertheless, the challenges of a new era require that new means be found to fully coordinate planning and policy for all our natural resources."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reduced supplies, high prices and smaller mill use and exports still characterize the U.S. wool situation, the Agriculture Department reports.

Shorn wool production is expected to drop this year by nine per cent, the 13th consecutive annual decline. The estimated number of sheep shorn is down seven per cent and the average weight is also down slightly.

Source of energy in Gulf Stream?

Men may one day harness the energy of the northward-flowing Gulf Stream to spin "underwater windmills."

The idea is suggested by three scientists—Drs. Harris B. Stewart Jr. and John R. Apel of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and Dr. William S. Von Arx of Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

They note that the Florida Current, a major component of the Gulf Stream, carries more than 50 times the flow of all the freshwater rivers of the world right past Miami's front door. Theoretically, the current could produce about 25 megawatts—the output of 25 of the largest power plants built by man—if all the energy could be harnessed.

However, the scientists propose the extraction of only about 4 per cent of the total available energy—about 1,000 megawatts, equal to the output of a single large nuclear station. Taking out more energy might seriously alter the Gulf Stream's flow patterns and disrupt climatic conditions.

The "windmills" that are envisioned would be large, slow turning turbines arrayed across part of the channel between Florida and Bimini at depths between about 100 and 400 feet. (NEA)

Power boost for Sedalia

The amount of electrical power available to Sedalia has been increased by 70 per cent, with the dedication Saturday of Missouri Public Service Company's new substation northeast of the city.

Some of the industry's latest technology has been incorporated in the facility, including a new "low look" that makes it considerably less obtrusive than earlier models.

One interesting fact brought out Saturday is that the substation will be able to take power from Union Electric's planned nuclear power plant, scheduled for completion southeast of Fulton by 1981. Thus Sedalia may enter the atomic age, albeit indirectly.

MPSC officials had some nice things to say about Sedalia, its past relations with the community and what it sees in potential for the future. There is no reason to believe that this mutually beneficial relationship will not continue for many years.

Fine point of law in Ellsberg caper

WASHINGTON — John Ehrlichman testified before the Senate Watergate committee two weeks ago that it was "well within both the constitutional duty and the obligation of the President" for White House aides to break into the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist.

Buchwald

seizures.

Since this is a great constitutional issue, I sought out my old law professor, Heinrich Applebaum, who holds the Chair of Jurisprudence at the Watergate Technical Institute of Perjury.

"Professor, who is right in the constitutional dispute between Sen. Ervin and John Ehrlichman?"

"They're both right, and they're both wrong."

"What kind of answer is that?"

"Well, Ehrlichman is right in saying the President of the United States has the duty and obligation to break into anybody's psychiatrist's office that he wants to. But he's wrong in saying that White House aides could do it for the President."

"Do you mean if the President wanted Ellsberg's psychiatric records, he had to break into the office himself?"

"That is correct. He had to perform the burglary personally. Otherwise it would be considered illegal."

"But isn't that kind of hard for a President to do?"

"The writers of your Constitution didn't want to make it easy. They knew that every President of the United States at one time or another would have a desire to break into a psychiatrist's office."

"It's something that no man in power can resist. So they provided that the act itself had to be committed ONLY by the President. The writers of the Constitution assumed that this would keep most President's from using the power unless it was absolutely necessary."

"Now, had President Nixon borrowed a wig and a camera and tools from the CIA and gone to Dr. Fielding's Beverly Hills office, broken into the files and retrieved the Ellsberg records, he would be acting within the law. But the fact that the President turned over the mission to two White House plumbers was his undoing. As a lawyer he should have known that."

"John Ehrlichman's lawyer, John Wilson, has argued that the President has a vast reservoir of power given to him by Congress which makes it possible for the President to commit what would otherwise be an unlawful act for national security." I said, "Do you agree with this?"

"I certainly do. When it comes to national security, the President can mug, steal and commit arson as long as he is protecting American citizens."

"How do you arrive at that?"

"Because, as Ehrlichman's lawyer has so well pointed out, the courts have never ruled that he COULDN'T do it. Now the President cannot commit these unlawful acts willy-nilly. He has to prove that in some way they have to do with a threat from a foreign power."

"How can he prove it?"

"In the case of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, it's quite possible that Dr. Fielding had made studies of Freud."

"But Freud isn't a foreign power."

"Aha, but where did Freud practice?"

"In Vienna."

"That's all the President needs to justify the break-in."

"Then if I hear you right, Dr. Applebaum, Nixon's only error in the Ellsberg affair is that he did not burglarize the office himself."

"That's the only constitutional issue they've got him on. In fairness to Nixon though, any President could have made the same mistake."

A conservative view

Precedent of ruling is unwise

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The right to hold and to manage purely private property is among the most cherished of our constitutional rights. The right of freedom of association ranks with it. Last week a U.S. district judge in Virginia dealt these precious rights a body blow.

Kilpatrick

The decision of Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. in Gonzales vs. Fairfax-Brewster School carries an impact that goes beyond the facts of the case. If his opinion is upheld on appeal, all forms of private discrimination, based not only on race but on other subjective factors also, may be effectively barred. To professional egalitarians, such a prospect may seem delightful; to defenders of personal freedom, the prospect is deeply dismaying.

The Fairfax-Brewster School, organized in 1955, has an enrollment of 223. Bobbe's Private School, organized in 1958, has an enrollment of 200. Neither school ever has enrolled a black pupil. Two black children, Colin Gonzales and Michael McCrary, sought admission. They were turned down. School officials feebly protested in court that Colin was not admitted because his application was defective, and Michael was not admitted because he never filed a formal application, but the court found their testimony "unbelievable." One cannot quarrel with that finding. The court enjoined both schools against continued discrimination, and assessed substantial damages.

The plaintiffs sued under 42 U.S.C. 1981, a section that dates from the Civil Rights Act of 1866. The law was predicated upon the Thirteenth (anti-slavery) Amendment, which had become effective the year before. It says: "All persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall have the same right in every State and Territory to make and enforce contracts... as is enjoyed by white citizens." Judge Bryan held that the plaintiffs had been denied "their right to make a contract with defendants because they are not white."

Section 1981 and its companion 1982 first surfaced in June of 1968, in the landmark case of Jones vs. Mayer. There the Court held 7-2, over the vigorous dissent of Harlan and White, that among the rights gained by the freed slaves in 1866 was the "freedom to buy whatever a white man can buy." The case turned on the purchase of real property, and involved no questions of freedom of association.

In 1969, the Supreme Court extended its interpretation of the Reconstruction statutes in Sullivan vs. Little Hunting Park. This involved a community park and playground, in which membership passed automatically with the sale or leasing of neighborhood property. The same point of law was involved this past term of Court in Tillman vs. Wheaton-Haven Recreation Association: Membership in the association was effectively tied to the conveyance of property.

The two school cases just decided by Judge Bryan, in my own view, present wholly different questions of law. Admission to these two small private schools was in no sense automatic. No child, white or black, had any kind of vested "right" to be enrolled. The two schools receive no local, State, or Federal aid. They are as private as a Moose Lodge.

Just six weeks ago, on June 25, the Supreme Court in Norwood vs. Harrison ruled that private white academies in Mississippi could not benefit from a state free textbook law. These academies make no bones about it: They believe segregation is desirable in education. On that point the Court said: "Such private bias is not barred by the Constitution, nor does it invoke any sanction of laws." And the Court added: "Invidious private discrimination may be characterized as a form of exercising freedom of association protected by the First Amendment."

At some point, perhaps on appeal from Judge Bryan's decision, the Supreme Court will have to take another careful look at the rights "enjoyed by white citizens" that a century ago were extended to black citizens also. Some of us had supposed that in a free society, a right to buy is balanced by a right not to sell, and that a right to make contracts is balanced by a right of refusal. Some of us had supposed that citizens of ANY race or religion had a right to band together in a private venture, admitting or excluding as they please.

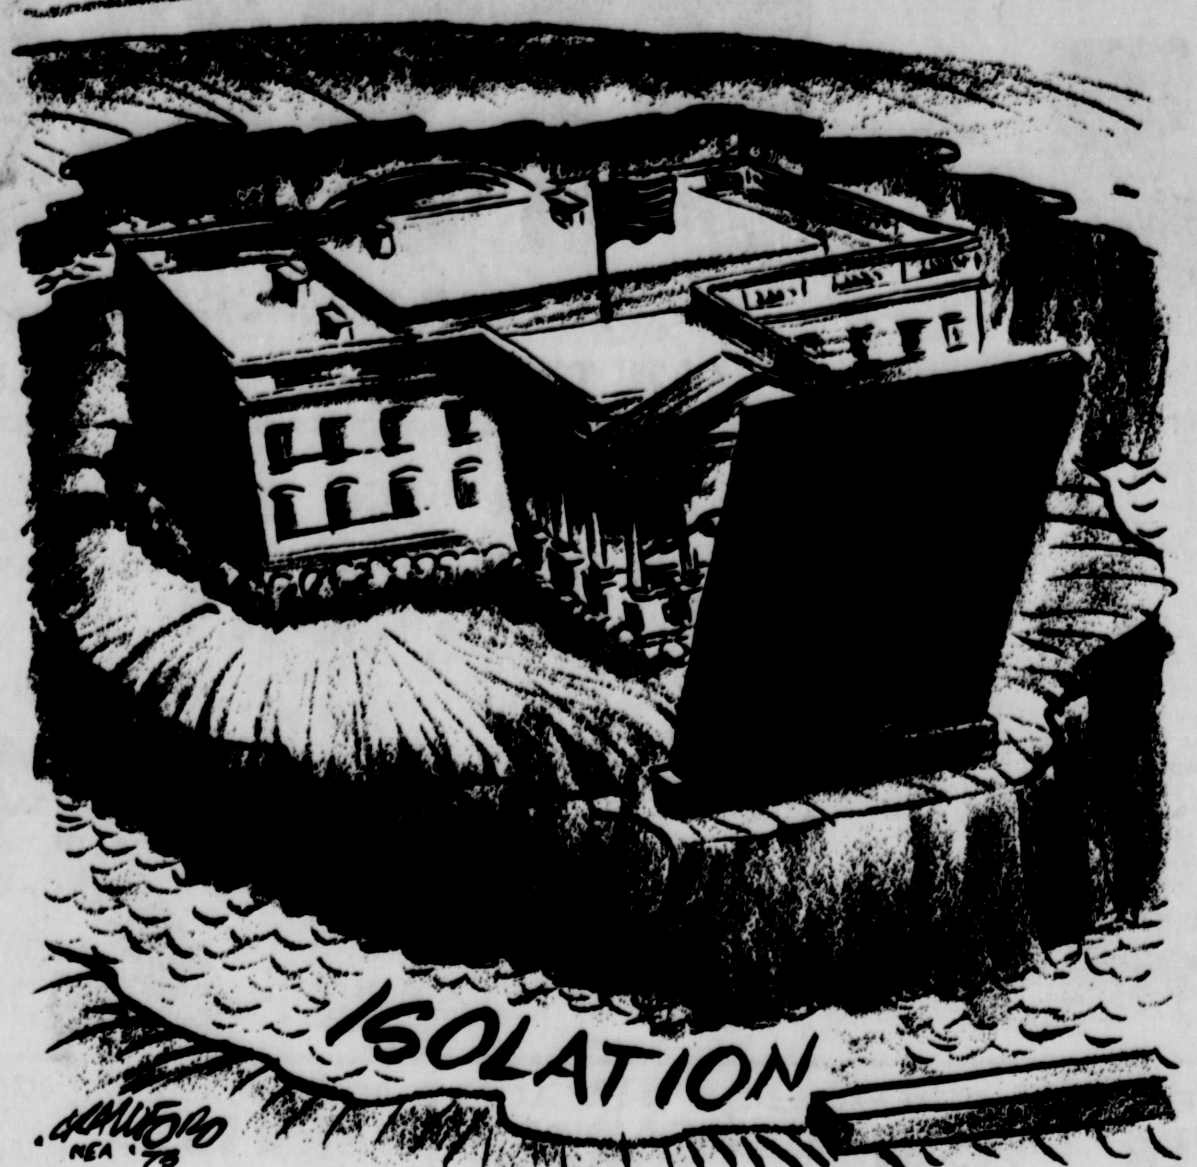

If traditional understandings of such private conduct have been wiped out by judicial decree, blacks may have won a victory, but at a grave cost to the freedoms of blacks and whites alike.

Doughnut's origin

Although the United States leads the world in doughnut consumption, with the averaging American eating more than 80 a year, the pastry is not American in origin. The Bible describes a forerunner of the doughnut in Leviticus, directing that "cakes mingled with oil... of fine flour, fried," be used in sacrifices.

Government no help in gasoline crunch

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Despite the gasoline shortage and President Nixon's attempt to reduce government fuel consumption by 7 per cent, government cars will be using more gas than ever in the year ahead.

The government is also continuing to give away gasoline by the millions of barrels to foreign nations. Documents reveal that in fiscal years 1971 and 1972, the Defense Department gave foreign nations $30 million in grants to purchase 5.1 million barrels of petroleum. The program is continuing.

The General Services Administration has admitted to Rep. Ben Rosenthal, D-N.Y., meanwhile, that government autos were allowed to use 34 million more gallons of gasoline in 1973 than in 1972.

GSA projects an increase of 30 million gallons for fiscal year 1974. Since fiscal year 1971, federal vehicles have increased their consumption of gas 40 per cent.

FALCON FOOLISHNESS: Earlier this year the pilot of a sleek Lear jet over Georgia suddenly saw a flock of crows dead ahead. "We don't believe we're gonna make it," he shouted to the tower. Instantly later, the jet dove into the roof of an apartment house, killing the plane's seven occupants.

To prevent such disasters, the Federal Aviation Administration uses such things as carbide cannons for frightening birds away. But the birds sit nonchalantly on the cannon, take a few lazy flaps when they hear the activator buzz, then settle back down on the gun barrel after the boom.

The FAA's safety experts know the cannon doesn't work. Nor does anything else. Now, they're studying a novel, new scheme drawn up by one of America's leading falconers.

He is retired Air Force Lt. Col. Richard Graham of Colorado Springs, who through a Spanish colleague has already tested his ideas on the U.S. Air Force field outside Madrid, Spain.

In simplest terms, Graham's falcons will fly up to bedevil any flocks of birds that venture near the airports. So panicked are most birds by the peregrine falcons that they flee at the mere sight.

Conservationists like the idea for two reasons. It would build up the dwindling numbers of the beautiful falcons. And the number of birds killed by falcons would be minuscule compared to the mass slaughter of birds recommended by some airport safety men.

OU's new head coach says

'We'll suit up and play football this season'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Barry Switzer, the new football coach at the University of Oklahoma, feels like a man caught in a revolving door.

Today, in Chicago, the faculty representatives of the Big Eight Conference were scheduled to decide what should be done about Oklahoma's admitted recruiting violations.

The Sooners announced sometime ago that Kerry Jackson of Houston played quarterback as a Sooner freshman in 1972 in several games and that his high school transcript was altered to make him eligible.

Thus, Switzer finds himself without an experienced quarterback as the Sooners, the nation's No. 2 team last season, prepare to begin autumn practice. Oklahoma may have to forfeit the conference championship the Sooners won a year ago, may be barred from postseason games and may not be able to appear on television although they would honor their 1973 television contracts.

"Not only all of this," Switzer said Monday, "but I even had my car stolen two weeks ago with $1100 worth of golf clubs in it. I guess it could have been worse if my wife and kids had been in it.

"I will say the University of Oklahoma will suit up and play this season regardless of what happens. It will have an effect on our football team if we are not allowed to play in a post-season game."

Switzer became coach after last season when Chuck Fairbanks resigned to become coach of the professional New England Patriots. He was one of four new Big Eight coaches who attended the league's football kickoff luncheon Monday and made his remarks concerning the recruiting violations at a news conference.

The faculty representatives' action at Chicago will be announced in Kansas City, Wednesday.

Switzer received sympathy from two veteran Big Eight coaches, Don Fambrough of Kansas and Vince Gibson of Kansas State. Both Kansas and Kansas State recently ended probation for violation of recruiting regulations.

Fambrough asserted that "probation certainly affects your football team. When we were placed on probation and I had to tell our football team a week or two before our first game, it was tough. A lot of innocent people are hurt for something they have no control over."

Gibson said he didn't want Switzer "to go through what we've gone through. I thought we got a very raw deal. It was a nightmare. I'll always be bitter for it."

The other new coaches at Monday's session were Tom Osborne of Nebraska, Earle Bruce of Iowa State and Jim Stanley of Oklahoma State.

Oklahoma, Switzer said, will be sound in the secondary, will field a good defense and will continue to use the wishbone which has proven so successful for the Sooners the last two years.

"Fifteen of our seniors are gone," Switzer said. "Nebraska and Oklahoma will not be as good. I don't think these teams will fall out of sight."

Osborne, taking over from Bob Devaney who guided the Cornhuskers to gridiron glory by winning 101 of 123 games, said in effect he knows what Nebraska spectators expect but that he doesn't "wake up hollering at night. There's a high level of expectation."

"I see no reason why we should have a bad football team. We have a lot of good football players. Our offensive line will be the strongest part of our team. We're set at quarterback with Dave Humm and Steve Runty, and we'll have better running with Tony Davis."

"If we lack anything, it will be the home run play. Johnny Rodgers was worth seven to 10 points a game to our team, and he's gone."

The departure of quarterback George Amundson and the questionable health of rover back Mike Blair are the big problems faced by Bruce at Iowa State.

Bruce said if the Cyclones find a quarterback comparable to Amundson, "we can go. We have probably the finest receiving corps of any team in the country. Blair was injured, and whether he will be in top shape the entire year ... that's the question."

"I'm very optimistic about the over-all season," said Stanley. "I very definitely believe we'll finish in the higher echelon of the conference."

Fambrough said the Jayhawks looked good in spring practice "but you can't really tell much about spring practice. It's kind of like having your daughter come in at 4 o'clock in the morning carrying a Gideon Bible."

"We have a defense we can put on the field with anybody. We're going to be better. For the first time since our Orange Bowl team of 1968, we have the depth. I'm optimistic. If we can bring our running game up to our passing game ..."

"We think we'll be big enough and fast enough up front. We have more depth and more talent in the secondary. That's where we got in trouble last year."

Gibson said he was to blame for Kansas State's poor record last year.

"I can't blame my players," Gibson said. "I did a sorry job. I was embarrassed, and I've got my stinger out this year. The Wildcats are going to come back."

"I've found out one thing about coaching at Kansas State. When I took this job, nobody cared. Now I find a lot of people do care."

Missouri's Coach Al Onofrio asserted the Tigers' quarterback strength will be the best during his long years at the school. He said the Bengals would not use the wishbone as they did last year but the power "T". He also said the Tigers, famous for their defense in recent years, would no longer employ the six-man line or man-to-man pass coverage.

"I hope the winning habit will carry over into this season," said Onofrio. "We've got more going for us starting this season than last."

Coach Eddie Crowder of Colorado, who has vowed he won't discuss rankings this year, made two observations.

Charlie Davis, Crowder said, "had a pretty good spring. I think we'll find some time when he can play." Davis is the big star of the talent loaded Buffaloes' attack.

"I don't envision anybody being as good as Oklahoma and Nebraska were the last two years," Crowder added. "They had so much depth ..."

The Buffs have finished third behind the Sooners and the Cornhuskers each of the last two campaigns.

Neinas doesn't feel that reorganization is the key

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The commissioner of the Big Eight Conference urged the public Monday not to prejudge college athletics by "one or two well publicized incidents."

Charles M. Neinas spoke at the annual Big Eight football kickoff luncheon and said critics of intercollegiate athletics have become "more vocal," or "their comments have been given greater exposure.

"They charge that college athletics has developed out of proportion, that it is on the brink of financial ruin, that recruiters are more unscrupulous than ever, that coaches are inhuman in their treatment of athletes ... that college athletics is facing a crisis."

Neinas, emphasizing that college athletics and the Big Eight are not above criticism, said he questioned the qualifications of the critics.

"A college president has been widely quoted relative to the rising costs of major college athletics when his institution does not sponsor an intercollegiate football program and hasn't for several years," Neinas said. "The athletic director at Oberlin College criticizes the coaches and their discipline. He is the same man who espouses a system which I choose to term anarchy."

"There are some who believe that stringent limitations on grants will be a financial salvation. I disagree. Many of those supporting limitations have been unable to balance their own budgets."

Hazel Brown overall WCC ladies medalist

Hazel Brown was the overall medalist at Monday's ladies guest day competition at Westmoreland Country Club. Mrs. Brown carded a 47.

Medalists from the visiting clubs included: Indian Foothills (Marshall), Ann McCormick; Clinton Country Club — Mae Foreman; Rolling Hills Country Club (Clinton) — Marian Kohler; Warrensburg Country Club — Nita Delozier; Whiteman Air Force Base — Phillip Hamilton; Meadow Lake Country Club (Clinton) — Tricia Hadock; Westmoreland Country Club — Lucy Hayes.

The WCC ladies stroke play championship tournament will open next week.

NCAA members adopt three division system

CHICAGO (AP) — Major college football powers now can run their own legislative show under an historic three-divisional split of the National Collegiate Athletic Association membership.

At the first special convention in its 67-year history, the NCAA voted overwhelmingly Monday to establish three autonomous divisions for its almost 700 members.

That junked the NCAA's traditional big school-vs.-small school convention lineup in which the smaller colleges dictated over-all operational policies by almost a 2-to-1 ratio.

As of last Jan. 1, the breakdown was 243 major schools and 421 in the college division and the small schools often overrode the big schools on prime issues such as recruiting, financial aid, and academic standards.

Now, there will be about 245 big schools in Division I, 200 colleges in Division II and 225 even smaller schools in Division III, each normally calling their own legislative shots.

The full NCAA membership, however, can overturn any drastic divisional legislation by a two-thirds convention majority.

By a vote of 366-13, the NCAA special convention approved the reorganization allowing its members to self-determine their divisional status, except in football in which 128 listed major football schools automatically are assigned to Division I.

Harrison sets sights on IMCA stock title

By JACK GUTHRIE
Special to The Democrat
A second-generation International Motor Contest Association late model stock car driver has cracked into the top ten in the 1973 IMCA point standings. Gerry Harrison of Topeka, Kan., is tied with Jim Hager of Liberty, Mo., for ninth place in the IMCA standings, with 215 points.

Harrison's father, Bill, owns and maintains the 1972 Chevrolet the pair campaigns on the circuit, and have entered it in the three late model races at the 1973 Missouri State Fair.

Harrison had been behind the wheel of Ford Motor Company products in recent years. In last year's night race on the Fairgrounds' half-mile dirt track, he won an IMCA 25-lap feature in a Ford Torino. That was one of three features he won during the 1972 season. Overall, he wound up in second place in the season's standings behind Irv Janey, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Bill drove a new model in IMCA competition for almost 10 years, but the Topeka tree trimmer couldn't crack into the top spot. He has set his eyes on a title winning performance this year.

The competition at the and twice United States Auto Club champ Don White, Derr's brother-in-law.

In addition, the town has fielded two Auto Racing Club of America champions, perennial IMCA runner-up Ramo Stott and Hutcherson's younger brother Ron, for a grand total of 21 national championships from the five drivers.

And Gordy Blankenship is cut from the same bolt of cloth. His older brother Lem has been racing on the USAC circuit for three years after a successful career of short track racing in Iowa and Illinois. Gordy has learned much from his fellow Keokuk drivers and he feels he has quality equipment under him for the first time in his career. In short, the stocky driver has done everything but win the prestigious title to impress the sport's pros.

Other IMCA regulars entered in the Missouri State Fair include Ferris Collier of Lampe, Mo., currently the second place driver; Gary Brooks of Grand Prairie, Tex.; Tommy Taylor of Shreveport, La.; Thurman Lovejoy of Kansas City, and Vern Mondry of Lake Elmo, Minn. Sedalia's Don Cooper will also vie in the three events.

On two weekend seconds

Utz into IMCA top 10

With his back-to-back seconds in two International Motor Contest Association sprint races at the Knoxville, Ill., County Fair over the weekend, Bill Utz, a Sedalia restaurant owner, has jumped all the way from 16th to a tie for eighth place in the latest IMCA standings announced Tuesday morning.

Utz ran second to Ralph Blackett, Des Moines, Iowa, in Friday night's 25-lap race, and followed that up with another second Saturday night on the same track, losing out in the last few laps to Larry Kirkpatrick, Wood River, Ill.

Utz also set fast time Saturday and won the STP trophy dash.

His production vaulted him into a tie with Bobby Adamson, York, Pa., for eighth place in the standings.

Thad Doshier, Topeka, Kan., still leads the sprint division of IMCA with his 1,155 points.

Gene Gennetten, Gladstone, Mo., is now in second place with 890, while defending champion Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City, rounds out the top three.

Buzz Rose, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, is in fourth; fifth belongs to Kenny Weld, York, Pa. The sprint division has only one more stop on the IMCA trail before the Missouri State Fair, which opens here next week. An IMCA sprint show is scheduled for Sunday at Eldon, Iowa.

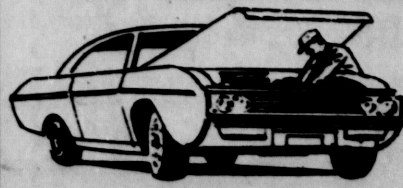

IMCA Sprint Standings

1. Thad Doshier, Topeka, Kan., 1,155; 2. Gene Gennetten, Gladstone, Mo., 890; 3. Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City, 855; 4. Buzz Rose, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, 815; 5. Kenny Weld, York, Pa., 790; 6. Jan Opperman, Beaver Crossing, Neb., 750; 7. Larry Kirkpatrick, Wood River, Ill., 625; 8. (tie) Bill Utz, Sedalia, Bobby Adamson, York, Pa., each with 605; 10. Larry Crambell, Lake Park, Fla., 465; 11. Jerry Camfield, Argenta, Ill., 435; 12. Dick Sutcliffe, Greenwood, Mo., 420; 13. Leonard McCull, Des Moines, Iowa, 390; 14. Detroit bolts to top in 10-innings scramble

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
After eight innings Monday night, the New York Yankees looked like a first-place team. Unfortunately, the Yankees' game against the Detroit Tigers lasted 10 innings—and by the time it was over, the Yankees were fourth in the wild American League East, and

Detroit was on top of the heap. First a two-run pinch-homer by husky Frank Howard with two out in the bottom of the ninth capped a three-run rally that erased New York's 4-1 lead and sent the game into extra innings. Then Aurelio Rodriguez scored all the way from first with the winning run in the 10th inning—thanks to a pair of Yankee throwing errors and a missed play at the plate. Meanwhile, the Baltimore Orioles, who had been first in the AL East before Monday's play, lost a 5-3 decision to the Boston Red Sox. That dropped Baltimore to second place, one-half game back of Detroit. Boston and New York are each one game out, although the Red Sox are one percentage point ahead of the Yankees. The Orioles were knocked out of first place by unbeaten, 23-year-old lefthander Roger Moret, who posted his fifth victory of the season with relief help from Bob Bolin.

Indians 7, White Sox 3
Chris Chambliss' two-run double capped a five-run second-inning outburst that lifted the Indians to a 7-3 decision over the White Sox. Gaylord Perry, 11-15, went all the way for the victory, giving up five hits.

Mets 10, Cards 3
Harry Parker pitched three scoreless innings of relief, working out of trouble twice, and picked up the win when the Mets rallied for three runs in the seventh and five in the eighth to beat the Cardinals 10-3.

"We played like we were in a daze," said Lou Brock after the Cardinals, the National League's East Division leaders, committed three errors and misplayed a number of other chances.

Astros 5, Reds 4
Jimmy Wynn, who just got over an 0-for-32 skid, rapped out two singles, scored three runs, stole two bases and drove home the tie-breaking run in Houston's 5-4 triumph over the Reds.

Expos 7, Cubs 3
Balor Moore pitched six innings of no-hit ball in Montreal's 7-3 triumph, but Mike Marshall had to come on in the eighth and picked up his 22nd save of the year.

Dodgers 2, Padres 0
Al Downing, 9-6, scattered five singles, struck out six and walked just one as the Dodgers stopped the Padres 2-0 and raised their lead in the National League's West Division to four games over second-place Cincinnati.

Spahn's brother-in-law collapses at ceremonies

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Warren Spahn always was tough in the clutch. Just after he began his acceptance speech during induction ceremonies for baseball's Hall of Fame Monday, his brother-in-law, Les Curran of Buffalo, N.Y., collapsed.

Spahn stopped his speech and moved into the crowd as doctors administered to the stricken man.

Although shaken by the incident, the winningest left-handed pitcher in history resumed his talk as the ambulance, siren blaring, took Les Curran to the hospital.

He was reported in satisfactory condition after suffering from exhaustion.

Spahn, 52, praised his father, Edward, who was present. "He taught me how to pitch," said the former Boston and Milwaukee Braves' star who ranks No. 5 on the all-time winning list with 363. One of the game's toughest competitors, Spahn, now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, probably would have been elected two years earlier to the Hall if he didn't pitch briefly in the minors after winding up his big league career in 1965.

Spahn was elected in his first try by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The late Roberto Clemente also was elected by the writers after the five-year waiting period was waived. His widow, Vera, accepted the replica of the Hall of Fame plaque.

With her three young sons, Enrique, Luis, and Robertito, and Roberto's mother among the audience, Mrs. Clemente said: "This is Roberto's last triumph. If he could have come here, he would have dedicated it to the people of Puerto Rico, the people of Pittsburgh and the fans throughout the United States."

The former Pittsburgh Pirates' star, who had a .317 lifetime average for 18 seasons and was a member of the 3,000-hit club, was killed in a New Year's Eve plane crash off his native Puerto Rico while on a mercy mission to earthquake victims in Nicaragua.

Hovley nailed

Kansas City Royals' Steve Hovley (30) is out at second base as Denver Bears' Gary Sutherland relays the ball to first during an attempted double play, which went incomplete. The action came in the fourth inning of the Kansas City-American Association All-Star game, Monday in Omaha. (UPI)

How soon will trades pay off?

Colts seek cohesive offensive line and defensive secondary

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, two years removed from a Super Bowl championship, are clearly the question mark team of the upcoming National Football League season.

Many observers feel that the bold moves by Joe Thomas during his 13 months as general manager will pay off much sooner than if he had approached the rebuilding problems piecemeal. Since an aging squad posted a 5-9 record last year, Baltimore's first losing season since 1956, Thomas has made 17 trades. Twelve veterans, including such household names as Johnny Unitas, Tom Matte and Bubba Smith, have been dealt off and another retired.

With the opening day 40-man roster likely to include about a dozen rookies and 10 second-year players, inexperience and transition difficulties stand out.

But Howard Schnellenberger, in his rookie season as head coach after seven years as an assistant to the 1973 Super Bowl adversaries—Don Shula and George Allen—is not easily deterred.

"Whether it's realistic or not," Schnellenberger said, "our objective is to somehow, somehow, scratch to win enough games to qualify for the playoffs."

He concedes, however, that cohesion may be lacking in the two departments which need it most—the offensive line and the defensive secondary—and that more experience is needed on the defensive line.

Conversely, he is more than satisfied with quarterbacks Marty Domres and rookie Bert Jones, tight end Ray Chester, running backs Don McCauley, Lydell Mitchell and Don Nottingham, and the linebacking crew of Mike Curtis, Ray May and Ted Hendricks.

Domres, who replaced the legendary Unitas after the fifth game of 1972, will be Schnellenberger's quarterback starter "until he shows me he can't win."

Schnellenberger describes McCauley, Mitchell and Nottingham—who have just 500 lifetime carries among them—as outstanding running backs and calls Nottingham "the best blocking fullback I've ever seen."

Schnellenberger expects the offensive line to be "a good working unit," but only tackle Dennis Nelson and guard Glenn Ressler are experienced starters.

The defensive line could include rookie Mike Barnes at end along with Roy Hilton, and rookie Joe Ehrmann at tackle with Jim Bailey.

The secondary, anchored by Rick Volk, a seven-year veteran, likely will be noted for its slam-bang aggressiveness while the youngsters learn the intricacies of zone defense. None of the other five starters and reserves has more than three years in the NFL.

David Lee, with a fine seven-year average of 42.9 yards, is solidly entrenched as Baltimore's punter, while newcomer George Hunt is expected to be the placekicker. (Next: New York Jets)

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly (44) turns the corner as teammate John Demarie (65) gets ready to take San Francisco cornerback Bruce Taylor (far left) out of the play during Monday night's pre-season action in Cleveland. The play went for eight yards. However, the 49ers won the game, 27-16. (UPI)

U.S. captures zone title

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Despite being involved in sets that lasted 76 and 32 games, members of the United States Davis Cup tennis team are against use of the tie-breaker in Cup play. "I don't think we need to change the format," said Dennis Ralston, non-playing captain of the U.S. team. "The Davis Cup is a test of ability, endurance and conditioning."

The U.S. team displayed all three qualities in routing Chile in the American Zone finals that ended Monday.

The Americans wrapped up the competition when Stan Smith and Erik Van Dillen, behind by two sets at one time, won three straight sets from Jaime Fillol and Pat Cornejo to give the United States an insurmountable 3-0 lead. Chile won the first two sets 9-7 and 39-37—the longest set in Cup history—but Smith and Van Dillen won the last three sets, 8-6, 6-1, 6-3.

The United States gained a 2-0 lead when Tom Gorman of Seattle defeated Fillol Friday in a match that included a 17-15 set and Smith, from Pasadena, Calif., whipped Cornejo in four sets in a match that began Friday and ended Saturday. Gorman defeated Cornejo 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 Monday, then the United States forfeited the final point. Ralston said Smith, who left for London to keep some prior commitments, had a slight shoulder injury and would not participate in his singles match with Fillol.

The United States, which has won the Davis Cup five straight years, will meet Romania in the next round of Cup play Aug. 17-19 near San Francisco.

The tie-breaker came into prominence a couple of years ago, partly to accommodate television. The tie-breaker eliminates the need to win by two games. After the score reaches 6-6, the winner of the set is the player who scores the next point.

Lumberjack event tops wrestling bill

Five matches, topped by a lumberjack event between Roger "Nature Boy" Kirby and Danny Little Bear, highlight Tuesday night's professional wrestling card at Convention Hall in Liberty Park.

Also on the program is a six-man battle royal, which will see the winner take home $600. Another is a match between The Great Togo and Jim Brunzell.

Other events include Bob Brown vs. Rufus R. Jones and Jim Dalton going against Mike George.

Dalton, Jones, Brown, George, Togo and Brunzell will clash in the battle royal.

Davis-Monthan, Offutt post SAC victories

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WHITEMAN AFB — Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., continued its winning ways here Monday night in the opening round of the Strategic Air Command's Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament, shelling Pease Air Force Base, N.H., 8-2.

In the night's other game, Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Ariz., rode the shutout pitching of Stan McKenzie for a 5-0, first-round win over Ellsworth, S.D.

Andy Addison and Bill Bissette (a pick-up player from Whiteman) combined their talents in the opener and spun a three-hitter for Offutt.

Corton Parks had a double and a solo homer for the winners, while Offutt teammate Phil Noe poked out three singles in four trips.

Cam Short was charged with the loss.

Joe Firova went three-for-three for Davis-Monthan, including home runs in the fourth and sixth. John Langford also homered for Davis-Monthan in the seventh.

The loss was pinned on Bob Henderson.

Tonight's games find Wurthsmith, Mich., Air Force Base clashing with Offutt in the 6:30 p.m. opener; Davis-Monthan will meet Barksdale, La., Air Force Base at 8 p.m.; and Ellsworth clashes with Pease in the losers' bracket at 9:30 p.m.

The tournament is scheduled to wind up Thursday. The public is invited to view the action free of charge.

Cole Camp ousted by Hamm's Beer

MARSHALL — In district softball action here Monday night, Marshall Hamm's Beer eliminated Cole Camp, 2-0, in double-elimination tournament. Hamm's picked up only four hits, but two were for extra bases.

In an upper bracket contest, Gerke's Grocery of Pilot Grove downed Blackburn, 7-0.

Tonight's schedule finds Matt's Boys of Marshall meeting Sedalia S-M Sporting Goods in a losers' bracket game at 7:30 p.m. LaMonte squares off against last year's runner-up, Whiteman Air Force Base in the nightcap.

Stahl's, the defending district champ, will see its first action of the tourney at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday against Prairie Home.

Captain Wright was the senior officer, but he was not going to play any dummies when he could get the play into his partner's hand and as always, Jacoby was delighted to get to be declarer.

This was a super Moysie hand. He liked 4-3 fits. Here Jacoby was in seven spades with four trumps opposite two.

The play was short, sweet and successful. Jacoby won the diamond lead, ruffed a diamond, drew trumps and spread his hand.

Try to make 13 tricks at no-trump or in hearts. That 13th trick just isn't there.

Large vitamin C doses lowered number of colds

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Children taking big doses of vitamin C daily experienced significantly fewer colds than schoolmates taking fake pills in a test study in Arizona, a federal research reports.

Dr. John E. Coulehan told a

Stanford University symposium on vitamin C and the common cold on Monday that the 14-week study involved 641 Navajo children at the Tseyi Indian boarding school.

He said boys and girls aged 10 to 16 years who received vitamin C were given two-gram doses daily. Children from 6 to 10 who received the vitamin were given one-gram pills.

Significantly more children taking vitamin C stayed well throughout the test period, the 14 weeks ending last May, Coulehan said.

In the lower grades, the vitamin C group recorded 28 per cent fewer sick days than children who were given inert placebo pills; the older group, 34 per cent, he said.

Coulehan said he and his colleagues at Fort Defiance Indian Hospital in Fort Defiance, Ariz., did not detect any greater beneficial effect from the two-gram daily dose over one gram.

The test results are "statistically significant, but their actual clinical meaning remains to be determined," he said.

"Further clinical trials must be performed both to confirm and expand these findings as well as to identify more specifically the possible effects of vitamin C," Coulehan said.

Richard H. Colby, mathematics professor at Stockton College in Pomona, N.J., reported similar preliminary findings in a study with 107 students and faculty members in the last school year.

He said of 15 colds reported, five were suffered by test subjects taking vitamin C and 10 by those receiving placebos.

Gunman shoots two persons, kills himself

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Granite City, Ill., man walked into the office of a trucking firm here Monday and began firing a revolver, wounding two persons before turning the gun on himself, police reported.

The incident apparently was precipitated by a quarrel earlier in the day between the gunman, Kenneth Powell, 37, and Linda Johnson, 27, a clerk in the office, authorities said.

Powell entered Jerry Lipps Trucking Co., carrying a .25-caliber revolver, police said, and shot Miss Johnson and the office manager, William Morrow, 47.

Police said he then killed himself.

Miss Johnson was reported in critical condition and Morrow in serious condition at City Hospital. Both suffered gunshot wounds in the head.

The capital of Colorado was named after James W. Denver, territorial governor of Kansas in the mid-1800s.

Ann Landers

Woman entertains husband's 'ex'

Dear Ann Landers: This is about the divorcee who wrote, "I'm madly in love with a married man and he loves me — but he'll never leave his wife and children and I refuse to give him up." She didn't fool anyone by signing herself "Trifling In Tulsa." The tramp lives in Atlanta. I hope you print this. I'd hate for her to think she fooled you. — His Wife

Dear Wife: Don't bet the rent, Lovey. Read on.

Dear Ann: The woman who signed her letter "Trifling In Tulsa" travels a little. But her home is in Miami, next door to mine. A few other facts were a little twisted, too. What a liar! — Can't Love That Neighbor

Dear Ann Landers: Did you check the postmark on the envelope that came with the letter signed "Trifling In Tulsa"? If it doesn't say Fresno, I'll eat my shoes. — Nobody's Fool

Dear N.F.: I hope they aren't 4-inch platforms.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm surprised "Trifling In Tulsa" had the nerve to identify herself that way. She does, indeed, live in Tulsa. The least she could have done was substitute the name of another city in order to protect the identity of the man. Her letter was additional evidence that she has no principles, no character and no consideration. — Ex-Friend

Dear Ex — and all others who wrote: According to my mail, there's a good bit of triflin' going on all over. Thanks for your comments.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem to have an answer for everyone. How about me? I am the stepmother of three teenage girls. I've taken care of them since the oldest child was eight. They've gotten into the habit of inviting their mother to the house for coffee. Lately they have been asking her to stay for supper.

I have explained to them that I am not keen on the arrangement, but they continue to ignore my wishes. It's becoming increasingly difficult to keep my dignity. The volcano bubbling inside me might erupt at any moment. I need some advice. — Patience Running Out

Dear P.R.O. — You should not be forced to extend hospitality to your husband's ex-wife. And he ought to protect you against this indignity.

The girls' father should inform them that they can visit their mother at her home any time they want to, but before they invite her to their home they must first check with you so you can arrange to be absent if you wish. They should also be told that they are not at liberty to invite their mother to stay for supper without first getting permission from you.

Dear Ann Landers: I married this girl less than a year ago. My wife is not interested in sex. When I say "not interested" I mean like almost never. We have been going to a counselor but it hasn't helped.

Last week I decided to talk to my father-in-law about it. My wife is a lot like her mother and I thought maybe he had had the same problem with his wife and could help me. He said, "She is YOUR headache. Leave me out of it." Then he told my wife that I must be crazy to come to him with something like that.

Who is wrong here, him or me? Shouldn't a father be interested in his daughter's happiness? — Pennsylvania Problem

Dear P.: Sorry, you pulled a prize boner. I know of no subject more delicate and less appropriate to discuss with a girl's father than her sexual inadequacies. Continue to get counseling and keep your mouth shut.

Drugs. How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is L.S.D. too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.
